ENJOY GROUP AND MARINA BAHIA GOLFITO
COMMIT TO SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN COSTA RICA

20 July 2023, Golfito, Costa Rica: Enjoy Group—since 1973, a foremost hospitality company in Costa Rica—and Marina Bahia Golfito—a leading Costa Rica superyacht, sportfishing and eco-tourism haven—announce environmental and community strategies that support the development and enhancements underway at the marina and its landscape footprint. The expansion of both is guided by a steadfast commitment to minimal environmental disruption, enhanced programming for the local community, and a continuing passion to support ecological sustainability which is integral to Costa Rica and its way of life.

SUSTAINABILITY STRATEGIES MIRRORING GLOBAL OBJECTIVES

As a property of Enjoy Group—whose established sustainability program, HUMAN, mirrors global ESG (Environmental, Social and Governance) efforts—the project at Marina Bahia Golfito is based on five unwavering principles. They are Ethics & Transparency, Collaborators & Family, Environmental Protection, Social and Community Protection, and Suppliers' Sustainable Practices.

With a high degree of sensitivity to all, these pillars are essential as development occurs. All properties in the Enjoy Group portfolio are committed to the corporate responsibility HUMAN represents. More, as a company with deep roots in Costa Rica, Enjoy Group and its properties lead by example regarding community and ecological concerns.

MARINA BAHIA GOLFITO'S ESG EMPHASIS

With marina enhancements nearly complete and featuring a total of 122 slips, the approaching construction of waterfront villas and modern tropical condominiums accented by additional restaurants and luxury shops, Marina Bahia Golfito has undertaken its expansion through Enjoy Group's ESG lens.

Environmentally responsible practices, monitoring programs, and ecotourism are fully in place. Current and future activity at Marina Bahia Golfito is measured and mitigated through resource use, biodiversity monitoring, carbon footprint offsetting, planting and regeneration of coral reefs, and client-based volunteer programs.

These strategies and programs reflect the very ethos of a business based in Costa Rica. The benefits of eco-expansion and related ecotourism celebrate nature and culture. In turn, protection of natural areas and the promotion of environmentally based development create awareness and positive effects on nature and local culture.

COMMUNITY & ECOSYSTEM SUPPORT

Marina Bahia Golfito is in the South Pacific region of Costa Rica, one of the country's more uncharted territories. Ecotourism is rich in biodiversity, cultural vibrancy, and offers a rare opportunity to support microenterprises.

The beauty of place—including the Golfo Dulce Tropical Fjord and Forest Reserve, Corcovado National Park, and Golfito National Wildlife Refuge—is being accentuated by mindful architecture at the marina.

Celebrating local traditions, people, wildlife and ocean advocacy, Marina Bahia Golfito and Enjoy Group are deeply involved in cultivating relationships with both the natural world and the community. With environmental emphasis and sustainability best practices, they support local schools and universities, small suppliers, climate trade compensation and carbon offsetting, as well as working in partnership with three local nonprofits. These include Raising Coral Costa Rica, Shark Mission, and INA. A national learning institution, INA trains and certifies individuals and legal entities to contribute to personal growth, social mobility, productivity, and competitiveness that allows Costa Rica to adapt to the changes that the environment demands.

Together with Marina Bahia Golfito, the companies are integrating the appropriate natural and cultural resources of the tourism badge while also seeking Ecological Blue Flag in sustainable design and construction. Criteria include legal compliance, water, energy, waste management, materials, and biodiversity. If awarded, it will be the first such designation in Costa Rica. Information regarding these certifications is available at the following links.
